Getting access

After subscribing, choose Set up your account in AWS Marketplace and request operator onboarding. Scienza's onboarding operator responds within one business day and verifies your organization and subscription. When access is ready, return through Marketplace setup, claim your credential once, and link your subscription to the approved analytics account.

After Scienza approves the input source and historical cohort, submit the authorized analysis and retrieve the saved report through the authenticated analytics API. Use the credential only for your approved organization. Observe the expiry supplied at issuance, separately from the annual term. Contact support for renewal, replacement or immediate revocation if exposed.

Onboarding, account help and refunds: support@scienzahealth.com. Keep resident records and credentials out of email.
